GIFT

Enjoy your moments to the fullest. Pursue all that is yours to pursue. Do not exist, but live in all the time that is yours . . .

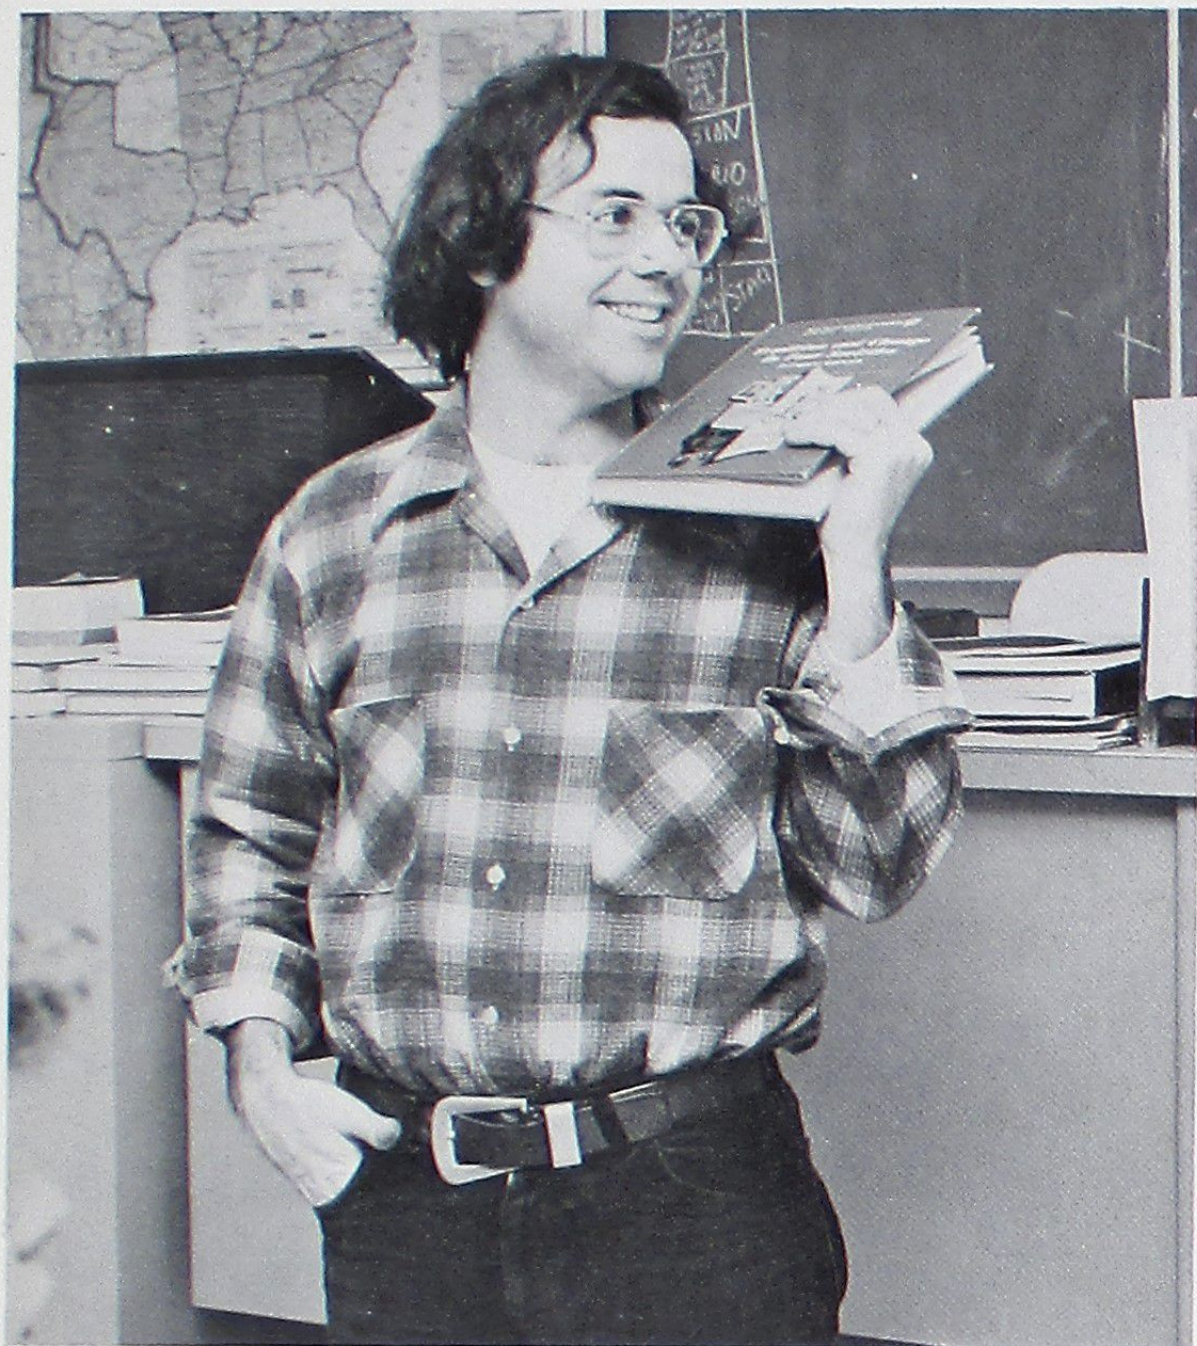

To Miss Whittemore, from all of us.

In our junior year we welcomed Miss Suzanne Whittemore as our class advisor. She took on this considerable task, knowing that we were facing our Talent Show and Prom that year. Right away she pulled our class together and enthusiastically started us planning our Talent Show. The many hours she spent working with us, enabled the show to be a time to remember. There has not been one project that our class has attempted without Miss Whittemore behind us all the way. Her concern for and dedication to our class is something we appreciated greatly. We would like to express our thanks to this special person for her hard work, understanding, and friendship.

Miss Whit, merci et adieu

In Appreciation to Mr. Brian Tuohey . . .

In appreciation to Mr. Brian Tuohey, for the determination and time he has devoted to this yearbook, we wish to thank him. All of those who worked on the yearbook staff realize the time, work, and effort involved in a project such as this. His constant encouragement and helpful attitude led to the successful completion of our yearbook. Thank you, Mr. Tuohey.

The yearbook staff would also like to extend its gratitude to Miss Patricia Barry. When things looked bad, Miss Barry was always there with a helpful suggestion or an encouraging word. Thank you, Miss Barry.

“Friends, faculty, and 7th graders:

Tomorrow afternoon we are faced with a great crisis — whether or not I should take my car on the victory ride to Holliston or not!

That's the way it is with the Mohawks. We are ready. We've been ready for Holliston since August when we had captains' practice.

Through the season we have become familiar with such names as Boob, Poop, BP, Bums, Buggs, Manugal, Bingy, Daice, Bone, Sal, Wilbur, Chopper, Superfly, Demon, R.P.M.'s, Red, B.C., Caz, and Joseph Michael Kerwin!!

They may have secret weapons,
But I'm no liar.
We've got a bigger one,
Boob's spare tire!

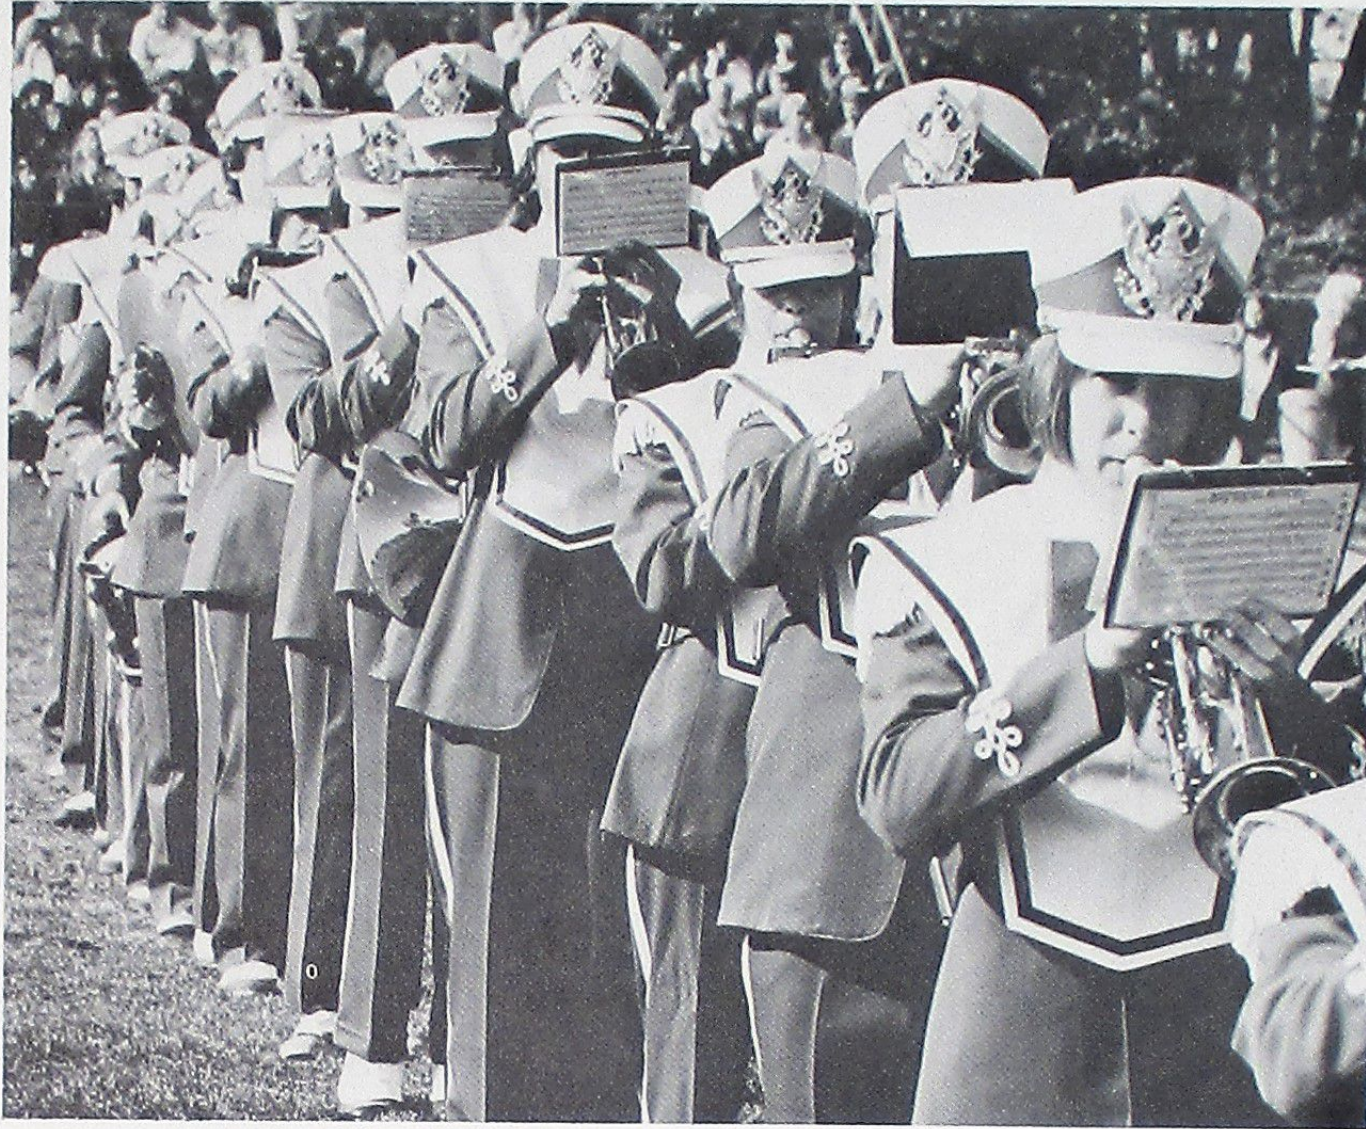

We are tough,
We're not chicken.
We're going to give Holliston a lickin'.

If all our players were injured, do you know how we would beat them? I'll tell you how we would beat them . . . WITH OUR PRIDE!!!”

We're number one . . . again!

The 1973 field hockey season proved to be a full, exciting, and title-winning year. Miss Peterson's grueling practice sessions really paid off as we shared the championship for the second year in a row. Names such as Hooker, Hookie, Hustler, Neesey, and Tabby, to name a few, became a regular part of our vocabulary. The determination, enthusiasm, and spirit of the Millis team will always keep us number one and next year's team promises to be another trophy winner.

Good luck in future seasons.

Basketball 73-74

This basketball season wasn't a total loss, as our record may show, but really a very good season. We won our last game which made us feel like champs. Our team attitude of not giving up or getting upset, helped a great deal.

Our practices showed we put out. We want to thank our scrubs: "The Bird", "Dur", "Fry Free", "Hal", "Stickheads", "Machine", and "P Brain", who did all the dirty work, and until now had no recognition.

The team stayed together before and after games (in case of fights). As a team we "pointed and fingered" all the time, as Wilbur's chest will tell.

We all respected the "minutemen" for not quitting. "The Bird" and Jeff were probably the best "minutemen." They did not see much action on the bench, but off the bench was a different story.

So as we seniors (Gary, Wilbur, Jeff, Ed, Tim and Paul) leave, we would like to say thank you and good luck to next year's team (you, too, Coach Fred Watson.)

This season's hockey team was a veteran squad led by Bob Volpicelli, captain, and alternate captains Joe Fay, Greg Whelan, Paul Freese, and Joe Kerwin. The juniors on the team were Dave McGann, Dan O'Reilly, Wayne Urquhart, and Jerry Howley. Sophomores that saw action this season were: Jerry Whelan, Ken O'Reilly, Terry Fitzgerald, Dan Smith, Tim Smith, and Dave Rouse. Freshman Danny O'Connor also was a varsity player.

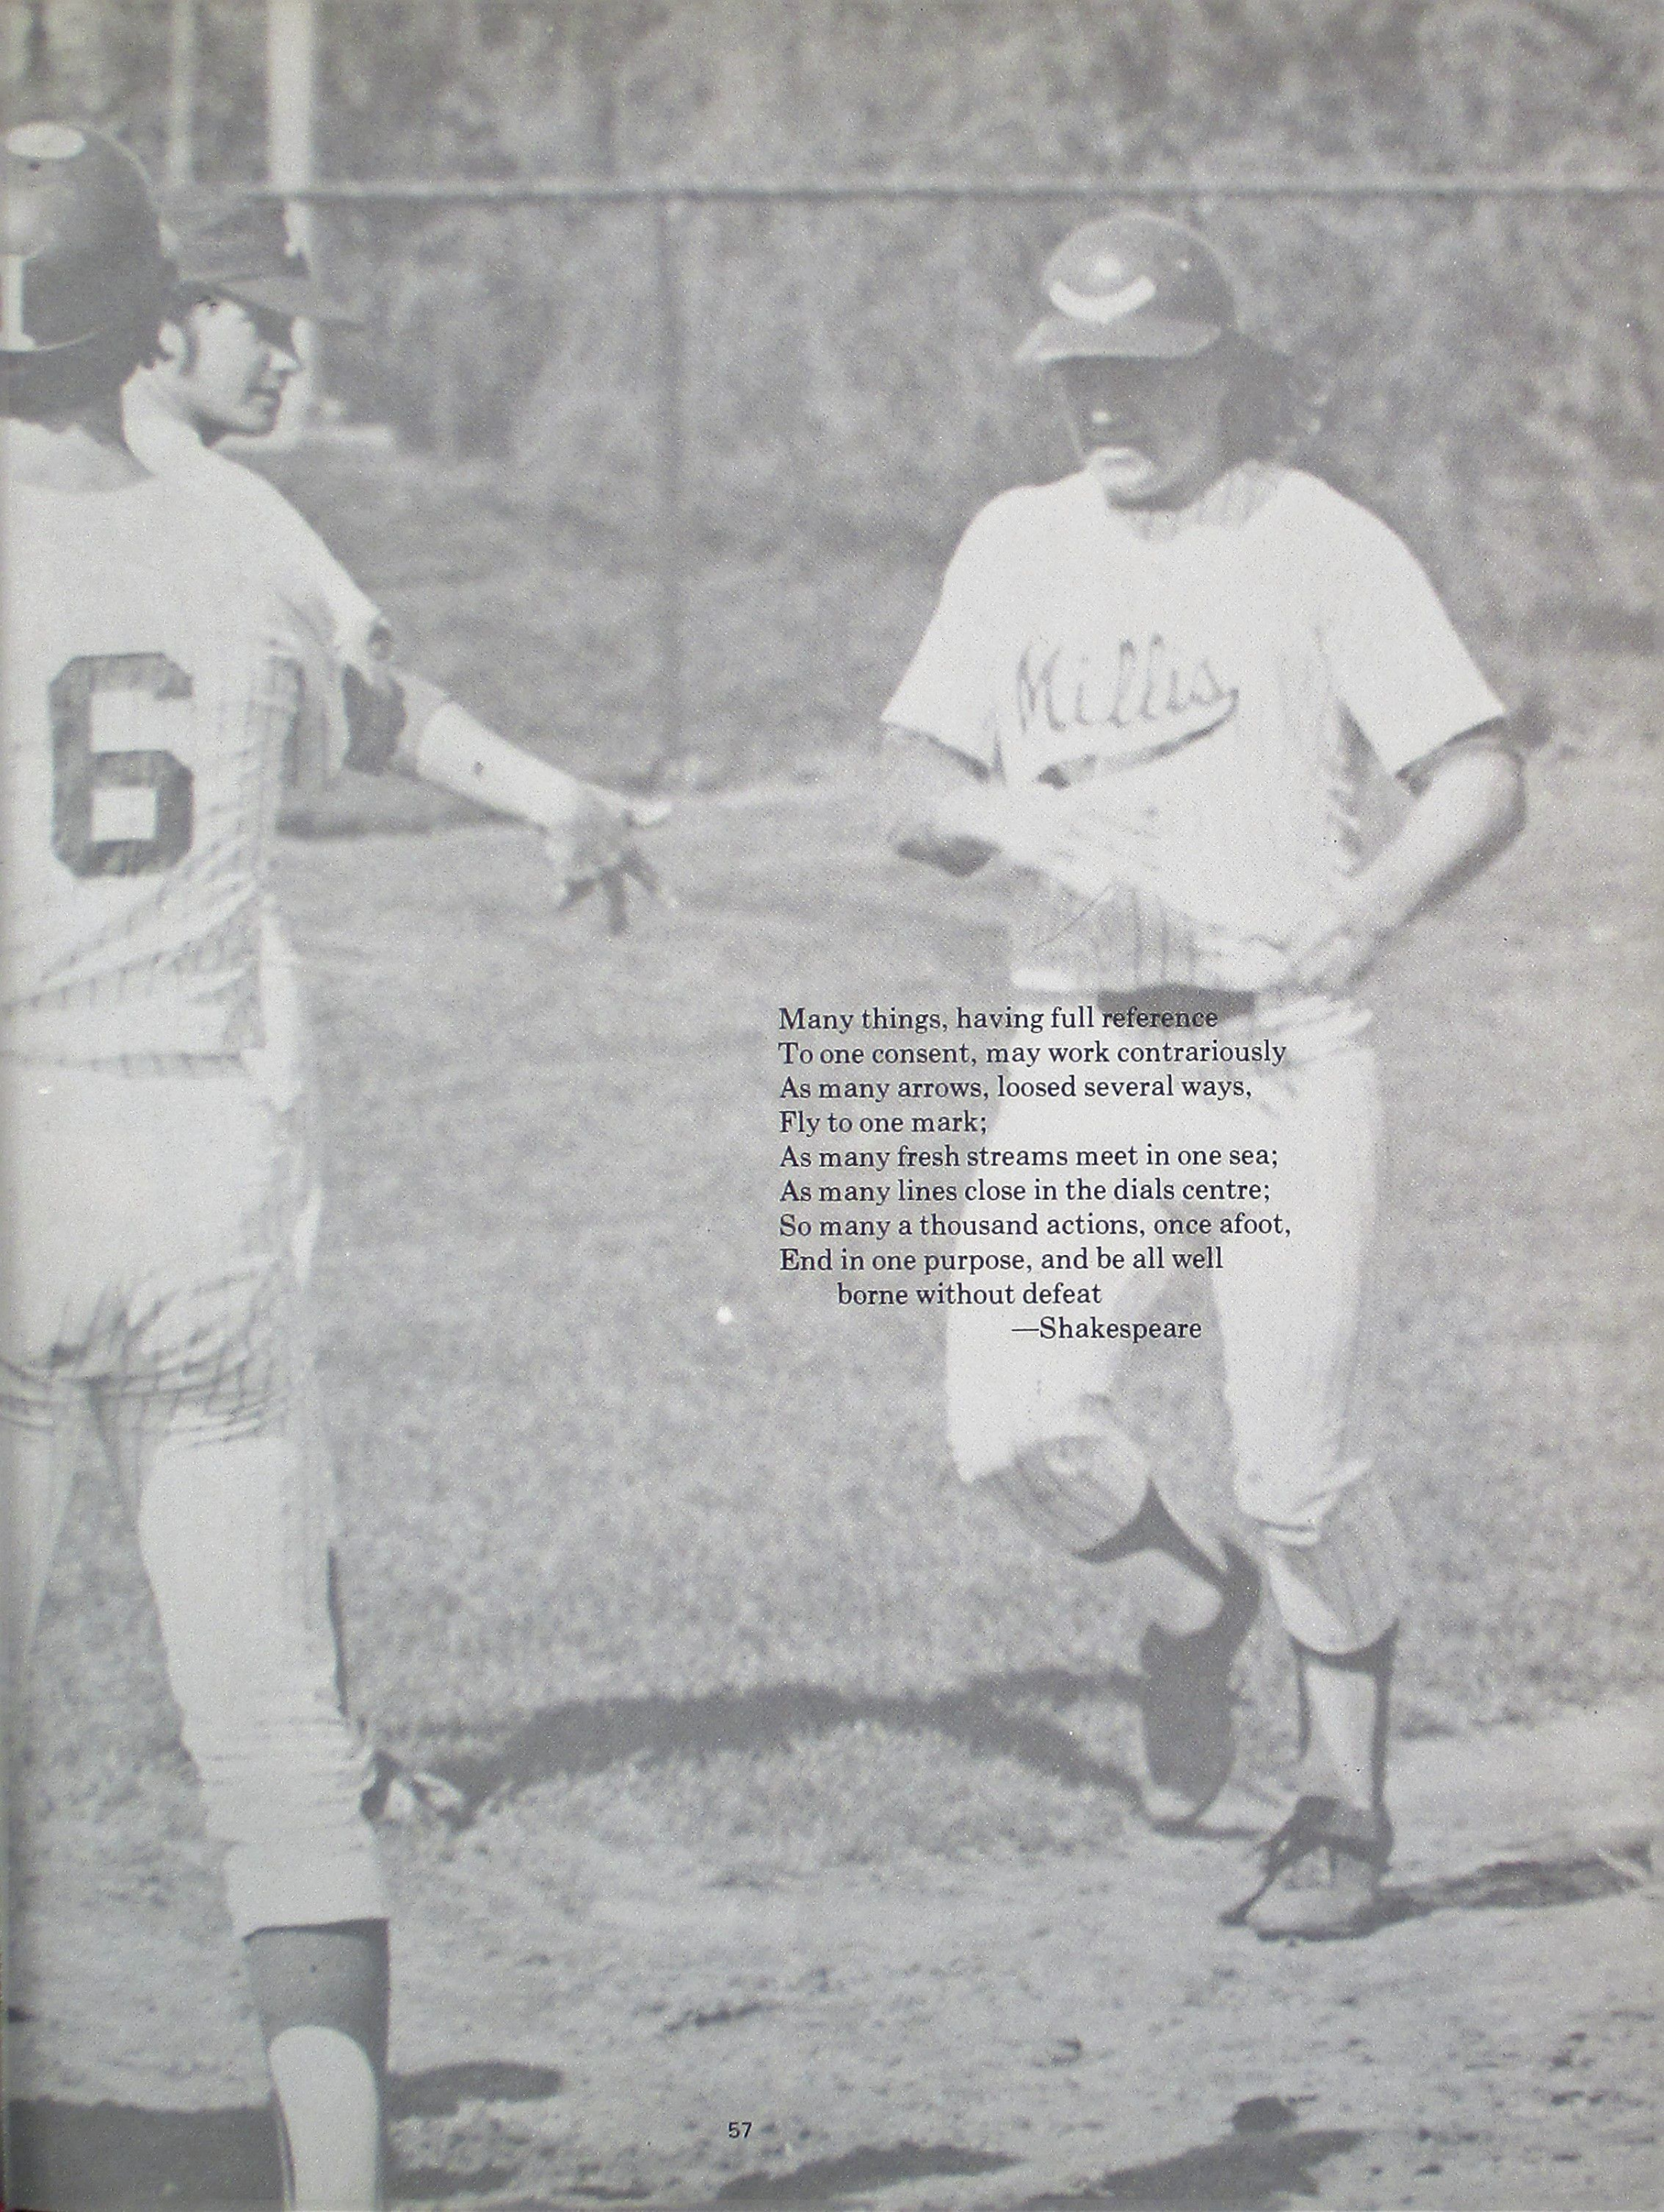

This year's team was much better than the record indicates; a combination of a very tough league and the team's inability to hold the lead once they were ahead added to the troubles. The seniors provided some good inspirational play and leadership, in the face of adversity, to the underclassmen.

Hopefully next year's team, although not a veteran team will be able to put it all together. A trip to Boston Garden and the state championships in March is a nice ride!!

Many things, having full reference
To one consent, may work contrariously
As many arrows, loosed several ways,
Fly to one mark;
As many fresh streams meet in one sea;
As many lines close in the dials centre;
So many a thousand actions, once afoot,
End in one purpose, and be all well
borne without defeat

To each of you members of the Class of 1974, best of success. The school system profited by your contribution — academically, socially, musically, artistically, athletically and dramatically.

Dr. George C. Roy
Superintendent of Schools

To the Senior Class of 1974:

I feel a very close relationship to the Class of 1974, since we started our high school career at Millis together. We have shared in many pleasant experiences and have grown in wisdom and understanding.

Each graduating class leaves a special memory in the hearts of the faculty; but the Class of 1974 will have a special place in my heart. I wish to each of you, the best of good fortune and success in your future life.

Joseph Arcudi
Assistant Principal

To the Class of 1974:

In the short span of your lifetime, you have, perhaps, observed more situations than any other generation. Among them have been assassinations, war, conflicts, strikes, unrest, discontent, apprehension, distrust, peace and love.

You have survived trying years. The Staff and Administration of Millis High School have tried to prepare you adequately to improve conditions in this nation. Each of you must contribute as an individual.

My thoughts on your preparation for life through your education can best be expressed in the words of Kahlil Gibran, the poet, philosopher and artist, who spoke of Teaching in his book, "The Prophet":

"The teacher who walks in the shadow of the temple, among his followers, gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and lovingness.

If he is indeed wise, he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind.

And he who is versed in the science of numbers can tell of the regions of weight and measure, but he cannot conduct you thither.

For the vision of one man lends not its wings to another man.

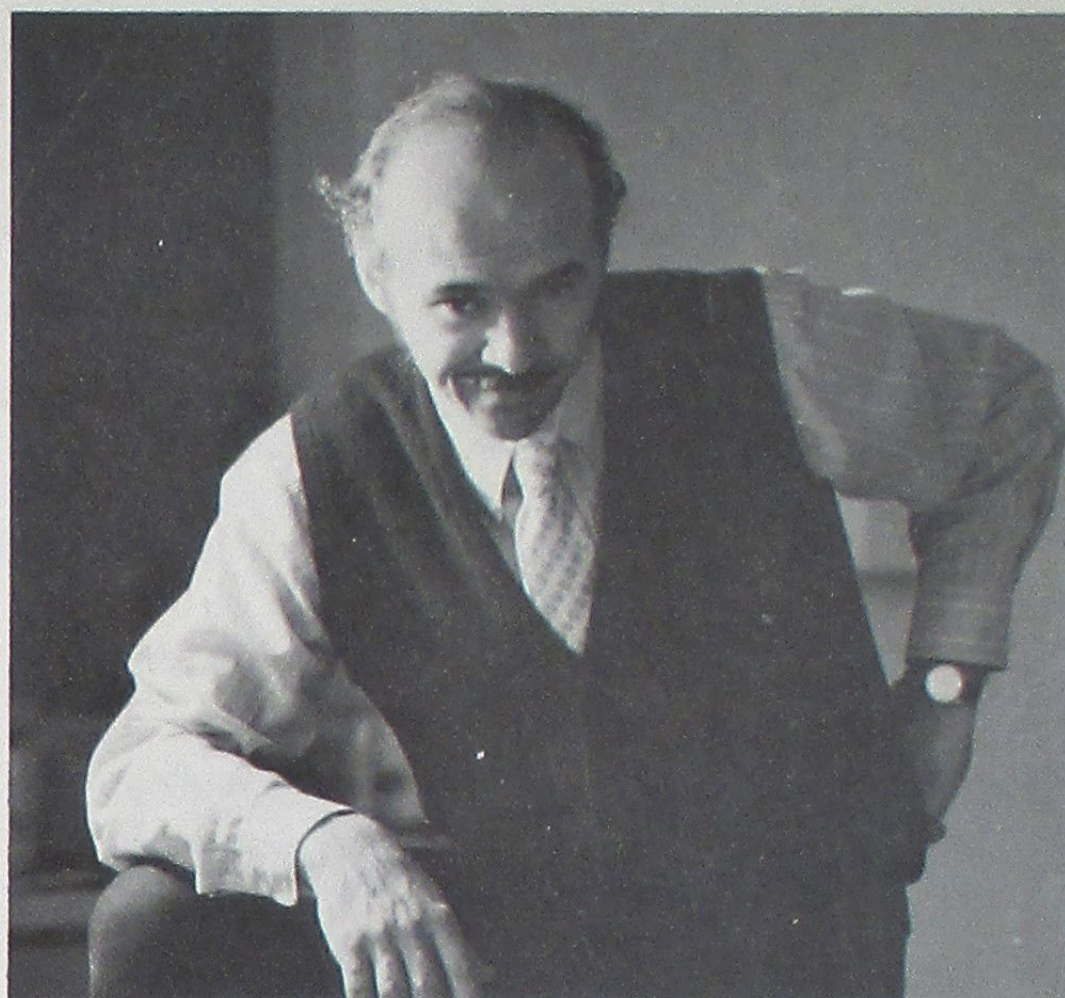

And even as each one of you stands above in God's knowledge, so must each one of you be alone in his knowledge of God and in his understanding of the earth."

Best wishes for a happy, successful, and meaningful life.

Sincerely yours,
William A. Vellante

Class History

Being called upon to begin kindergarten at the wee age of five years old did not seem to phase most of us. Although Larry Costello cried all the way to school, he settled right into the routine as most of us did, building castles with blocks and learning our A,B,C's.

Our first grade class seemed to be a peaceful and intelligent one until the day Beverly Alger bit Patty Reese in the neck, thus provoking our first real-live-fight.

Disturbances continued in the first grade when our teachers discovered Maureen Dillon was not yet toilet trained.

As we moved on to second grade some of us thought we were pretty smart. Dick Thatcher felt like going home one day so he had someone squeeze him until he got sick. Danny Fitzgibbons began his career as a comedian early in life as he scared Evan Gessman half to death when he shut the light off on him while he was in the bathroom. Ann Tabarani O'Hara held the best record for attendance in not being absent once all year.

The onset of third grade brought two new faces to our evergrowing class. Gary Goudy, one of the new arrivals, was discovered to our surprise to have had an ulcer. We discovered this then Gary was noticed visiting the nurse's office every day for a glass of milk. Sheryl Dawson, also a new face to our class, became well known as she began to show up most of our smarter classmates. Shock and amazement appeared on Mark Lyons' face one day when he was cleaning out his ear with a pencil and when pulling it out found that the eraser was stuck in his ear.

"Attention Getting" was our main theme for the fourth grade, as Bob Volpicelli led his band of trouble makers to hang on the pipes in the boys' basement, causing poor Miss Jackson to come in to reprimand them, blindfolded!

In the fifth grade we all were out to prove our strength as Bob Ganusko, in a fit of rage, smashed his fist through Miss Brosnan's wall. Still a more devastating feat was performed by Dave Carter as he jumped out of Mrs. Levy's second story window. That very same year Dave was thought to have had lice when an all out medical inspection swept through the school. To Dave's relief it was found that someone had put pencil shavings in his hair.

Learning came slowly for Kevin Powers in the sixth grade when twice he discovered that ink rose when you sucked on the end of a pen, and both times his mouth was covered with ink. As spring sprung so did love as Larry Costello fought with Billy Powers on the "hill" over Deb Wheatly. That year Tim Lkeczek got Miss Brosnan so upset that one day she picked up a chair and threw it at him.

Bad luck continued to follow certain members of our class when Mark Danis broke his foot when the lunch bench fell on it. Mark walked around on it all day and didn't realize he had broken it until he tried to take his shoe off and he couldn't because of the swelling.

As sixth graders we thought we were very smart, and you could see us in the lunch line breaking the lunch tokens in half to get two lunches.

Love bloomed again in seventh grade when Rich English was nearly strangled by Mark Danis over Barbara Hoffman. Jan Mighton can still remember writing: "I will not giggle in class" for Mr. Dodge.

Eighth grade rolled around and with it so did mayhem. Jim Pellitier and Doug Shute thought they might be able to flood Mr. Andrews' room by plugging up the sinks. Instead of just flooding Mr. Andrews' room the water went out into the hall and into the next room. They will always remember the mess they had to clean up.

John Sullivan was very surprised that year when he brought home a C in history. His father did not appreciate John's efforts and the next day he arrived at school with a "whiffle" hair cut. That was the day his nickname went from "Sully" to "Scully".

Vickie Squire and Pam Turci were not surprised when they had Mrs. Gavin as Freshmen for they will always remember Mrs. Kenny's warning, "You wait until you have Mrs. Gavin next year!" While in the other room Maureen Lyons would still be trying to memorize the "Broken Chalk Theorem".

Billy Powers had now become well-known among the teachers as he once stuck a tack on Mr. Lacaquer's chair. Later that same year he took on Miss Andriachi in a wrestling match. Although he won in the first round, he lost in the long run, being bounced from school.

As tenth graders Bob Angel and Gary Jordan decided to give the boring Mrs. Morrill's class a little excitement. In doing so, they turned the gas jets on and lit them on fire. To their dismay, they didn't cause the little excitement, but earned an hour after school.

We all learned never to doubt the word of Kathy Byrne in eleventh grade when she said that she was going to go to the store. We found out she really did but to a greater extent than we all thought. She drove right through the front window of Cumberland Farms. More trouble ensued when Bob Lockett and Dave Jordan tried to convince Mr. Arcudi that they didn't steal the fire extinguishers.

As seniors, a new face came to Millis High, Mark Reese, and with him a tradition. At least, it looks like it might be a tradition.

As we prepared for the senior play with Leslee MacInnes as student director, we were also planning future events such as the Class Banquet and Graduation.

As spring slowly came around, love blossomed again, this time between Ed McMahon and Denise LeBlanc. Ed has vowed he will not follow tradition.

Spring also brought to Millis tulips and sunshine, but to Greg Whelan it brought a certain Easter Bunny.

Recently a new mini course on how to ride a bicycle was started. Jill McGillen was the first to enroll and we're sure there will be more to follow.

Joe Fay can still be seen leaving school early to make it to work on time and Joe Cassidy with his late working hours never made it on time.

The time has now come, when we will graduate. I am sure, no matter where we go or what we do in life, every-one of us will be proud to say, "I graduated with the Millis Class of 1974".

Class Prophecy

Good afternoon, ladies and gentlemen; this is Paul Freese reporting from 130 Farm Street, home of Mrs. Sue Lockett, the location for the Tenth Reunion for the Millis Class of '74, and "You Are There."

The cars are just starting to pull in now, and the first car I see is that with scientists Nancy Nickerson, Sheryl Dawson, and Ronald Smith. The trio made a very important discovery last week when they found through varied tests that Billy Powers, known better as Wilbur, was a brain donor at the age of four. When asked how Wilbur had made it through school with out a brain, scientist Ron Smith replied, "He hid it very well." Also in the car is Bob Ganusko, who invented a one-way windshield used for any size automobile.

The next car I see is the famous Puerto Rican Liberation Army limousine, carrying executives Dan Fitzgibbons, Mark Tobin, Chris Caldwell, and Ken Delaporta. The limousine is very easily recognized because of the huge solid gold spoon on the hood.

Here come doctors Carol Rowley, Gary Buchanan, and Dave Carter. Doctor Carter is well known for his work in the Canadian woods nursing "bucks" back to health.

As I look around I notice that many of the '74 graduates are already here. I see Paul Fraser, author of his famous book, 365 Ways To Play Solitaire, talking to Disc Jockey David Jordan, other-wise known as D.J.

Out in the field, Joe Lewandowski and carrot farmer Tom Smith are trading opinions on what makes the best fertilizer. Listening in is Jim Aniki, owner of restaurants from coast to coast. Rumor has it that Jim is trying to bargain with these small town farmers.

Pulling in now is millionaire stewardess Jill McGillen, driven by her chauffeur, John Sullivan.

Suddenly everyone is quiet as everyone listens to a very strange noise. It sounds a little like "Yankee Doodle." Suddenly a yellow Toyota takes the turn into the driveway and everyone is relieved to find out that it is only Doug Shute, still selling ice cream.

As I enter the house, I find fortune teller Janet Moore reading the futures of Jim Prue, Art Rubino, and Kevin Powers. From what I can hear, things don't look too good.

Over by the food is Ed McMahon, ex-football great, who went into show business to become a belly dancer. This is just a small example of the talent that has come out of the class.

Ex-rock musician Pete Albani has now turned in over fifty people in fulfillment of his new job as Narcotics Agent. Four of these fifty were his own group members.

Stepping in the door now is the comedy team of Harry and Larry. Their real names are Leslee MacInnes and Pam Turci and even their closest friends have never seen them apart.

Heading downstairs I see singer-actresses Cindy Noseworthy and Judy Graham doing "Brigadoon" all by themselves.

The new threesome called the "Three Stoogettes" is performing upstairs and many say that this team of Debbie Wheatley, Phyllis Kleczek, and Moe Lyons is the best since the "Three Stooges."

Heading back outside I see Jeff Hansen displaying some of his new shaving lotion called "Baby Face Lotion." Right beside him is Maureen Biagiotti with her new antiperspirant, Bio Juice.

In the business world, I see many of the '74 graduates have made it quite big. Dexter Gould, owner of Millis Trans, is here with his secretary, Carol Pennini. Talking to them is owner of Herman Shoe, Mark Brodeur. Some say that Mark is presently going through legal formalities to try to change the name to Brodeur Shoe. Also here is Greg Whelan, a new partner of Whelan and Son Carpentry. Vickie Squier, gas station owner, was in the news yesterday when she wouldn't hire Dave Kuhn to pump gas because of his sex.

Brian Cooney, trying to break into the health spa business but lacking the financial support needed, is being bothered by Loan Shark Mark Danis. Danis says that he will lend Cooney money but with a 99% interest rate per day.

In the back of the house, Lynn Hersey, evangelist, is talking with Brigham's owner Lisa LaRocca. Interrupting their talk is Jan Mighton, who is trying to find someone who will take dancing lessons from her, but she doesn't seem to be having much luck.

A truck full of locals, driven by Charles owner Joe Cassidy, is now pulling in. With Joe are: John Joyce, Mike Perciacante, Ted LaCroix, and Bob Volpicelli, all D.P.W. workers. In the back of the truck are Chip Hughes, Bruce Gruhn, and town bum, Dick Thatcher.

Also pulling in is Little League President Len Campbell and Librarian Barbara Hoffman. Many thought Barbara would go into show business, but she says that the library is her life.

International playboys Larry Costello and Mark Lyons are at the moment just looking around. Looks to me as if they can't find what they're looking for.

If someone were to ask me my opinion of the most unusually dressed, I would have to call it a three way tie among fashion designers Rosario Cudo, Suzanne Fontaine, and the life guard for Muscle Beach, Tim Kleczek, who is still wearing his bathing suit.

Salesmen Bob Angel, Gary Goudy, and Bob Lockett are having a very heated discussion downstairs. Bob Lockett says that his women's lingerie is more important than Goudy's selling sponges and Angel's selling moustache wax. Goudy says that everyone used sponges, and Angel thinks that without a moustache you're not a man.

Just arriving from the school are Kathy Byrne, driving instructor, Gary Burns, assistant to Spanky, and Mark McCurley and Jim Wheatley, professional students.

Matt Rouse, who was unable to attend, is now attending Yale and is said to be the best debater that Yale has ever had. The school is now trying to talk him into going out for the debating team.

Many of the '74 graduates were unable to attend because they were in training of some kind. Soccer Pro Ed Alger is presently participating in the Soccer Finals, and Tennis Pros Lorraine Lipsett and Marlene Jewer are teaming up to take on Bobby Riggs and Archie Bunker for the biggest sum of money ever to be won in tennis.

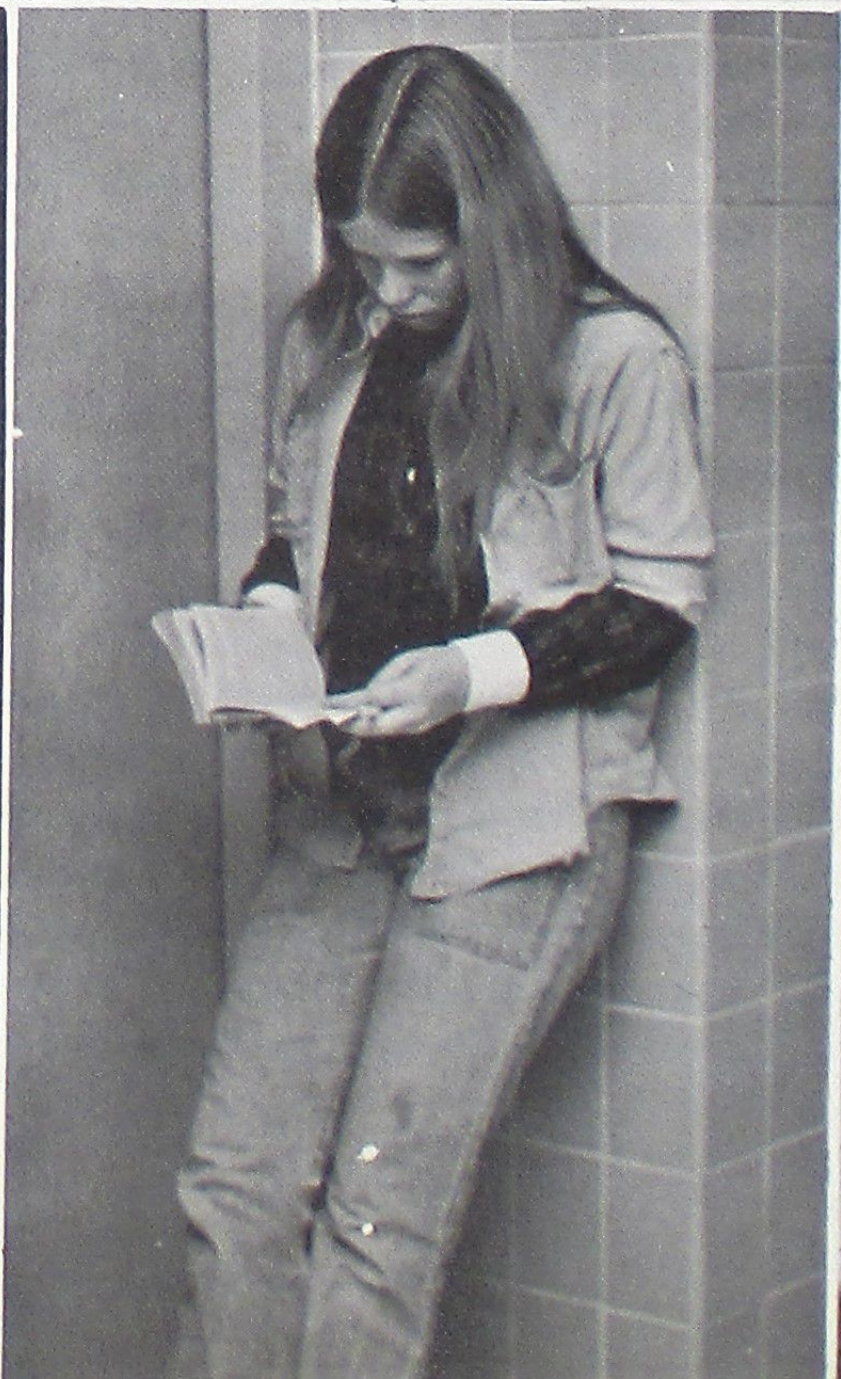

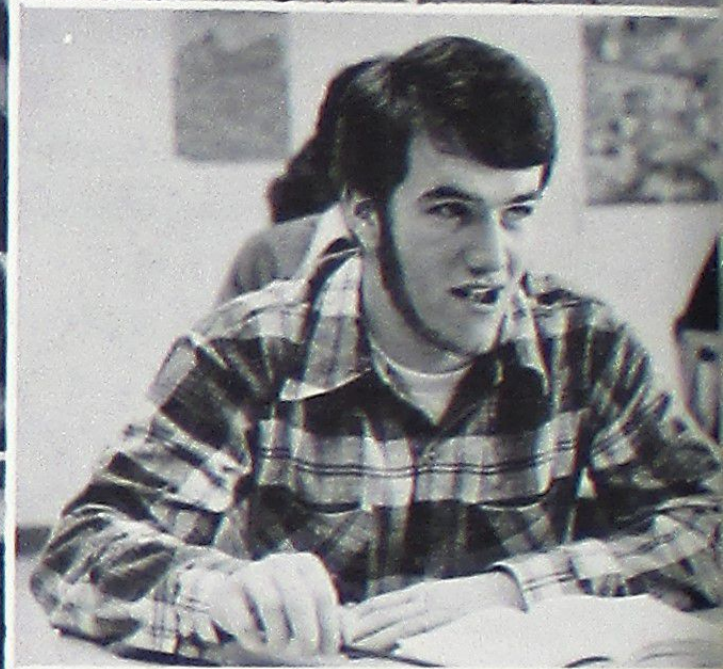

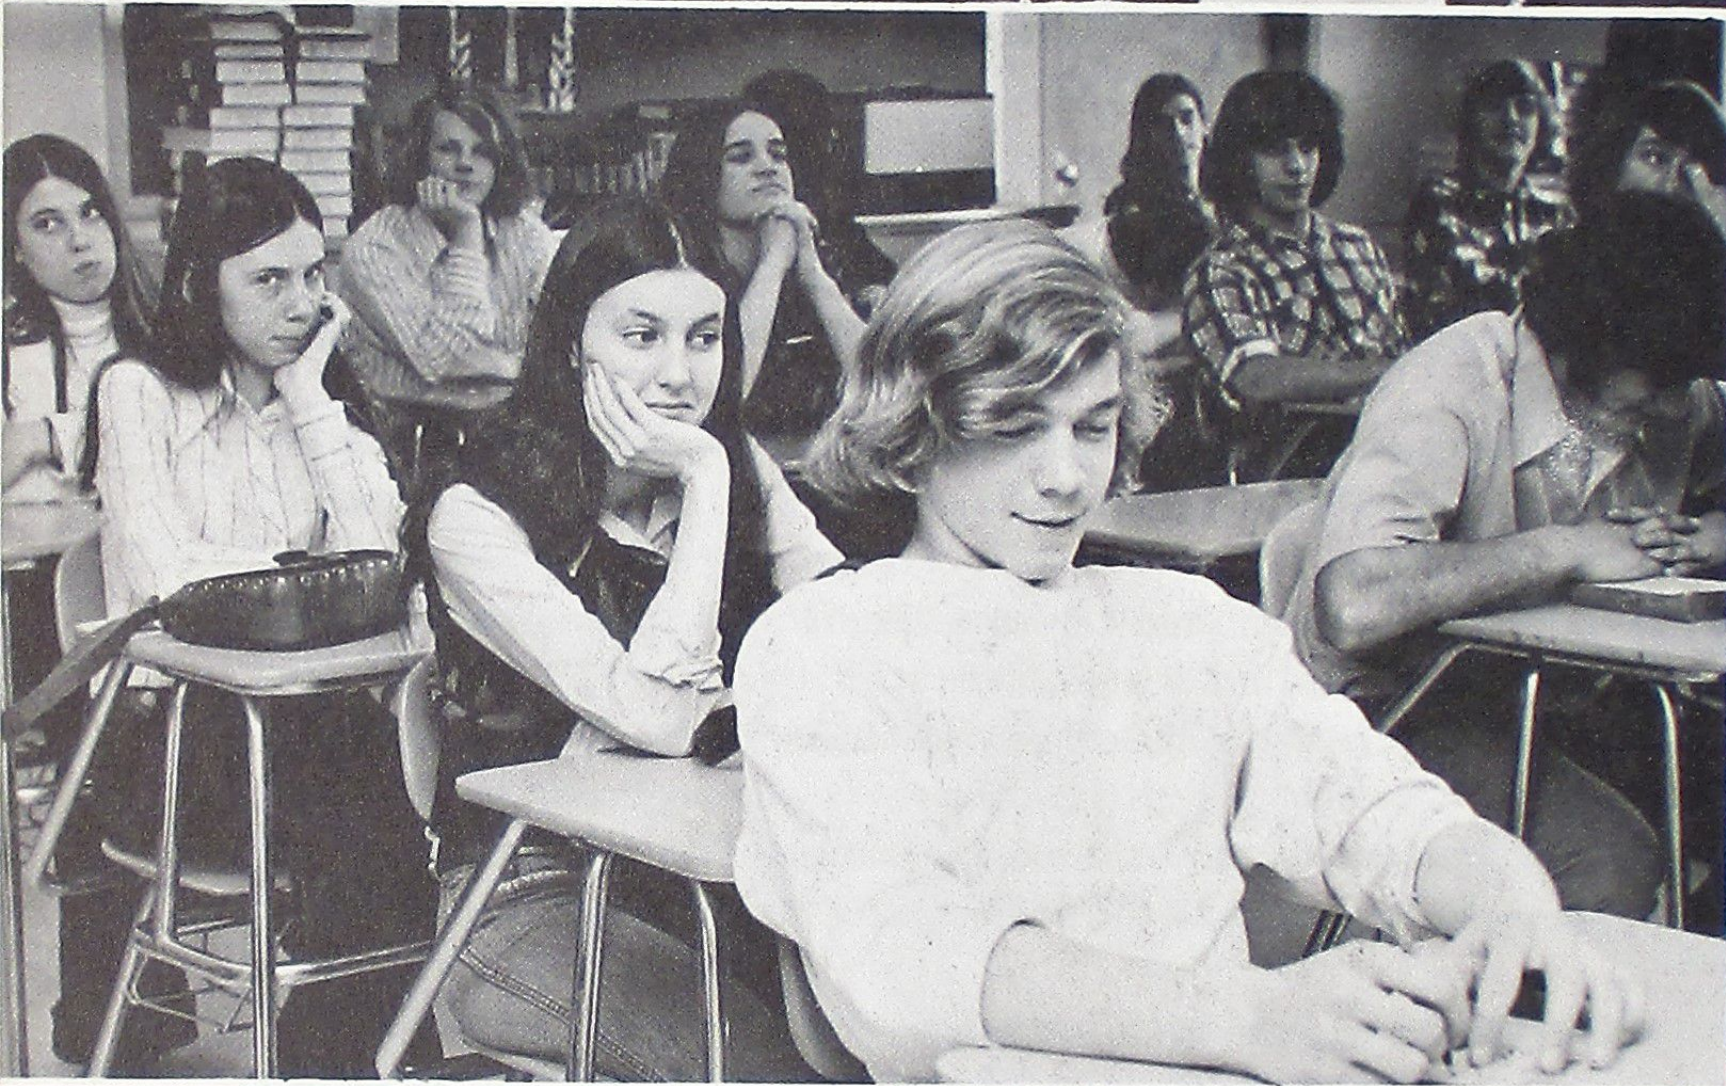

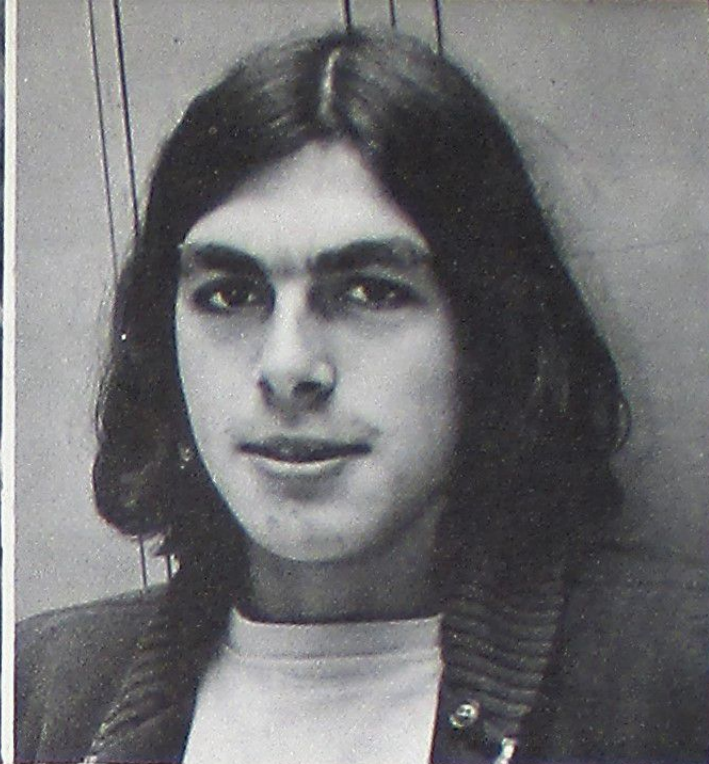

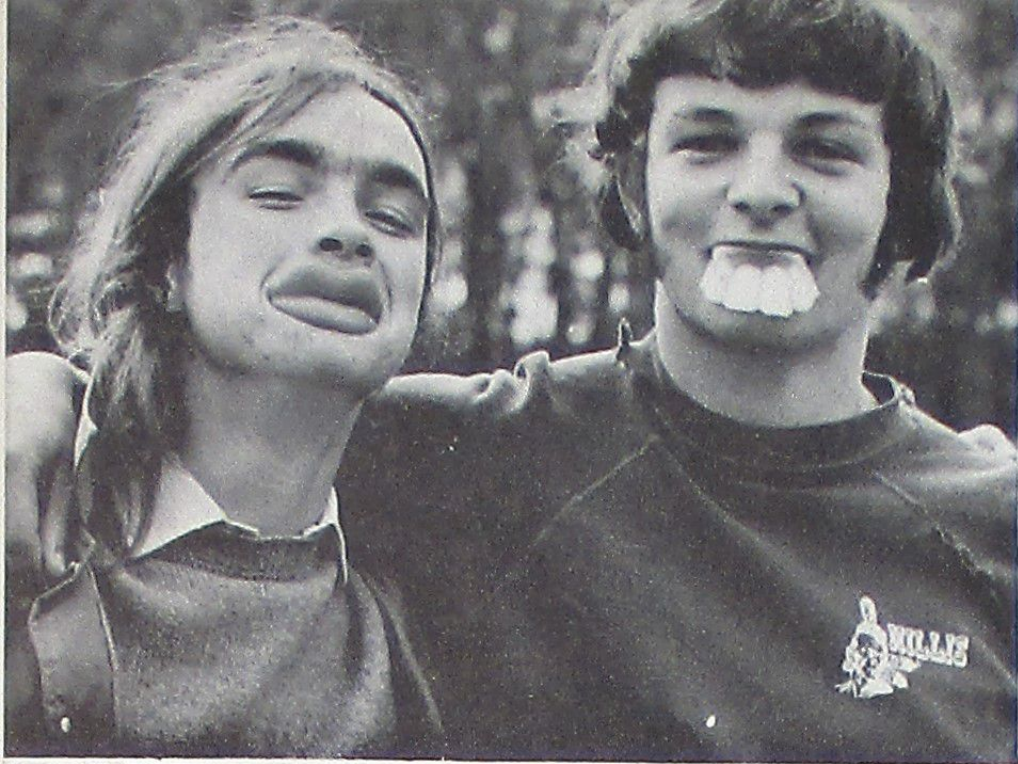

Racing car drivers Tony Dellatorre and Rich English are touring the United States and are trying to leave skid marks in all fifty states. — So far they have accomplished it in 48 states and are now on their way to Alaska.

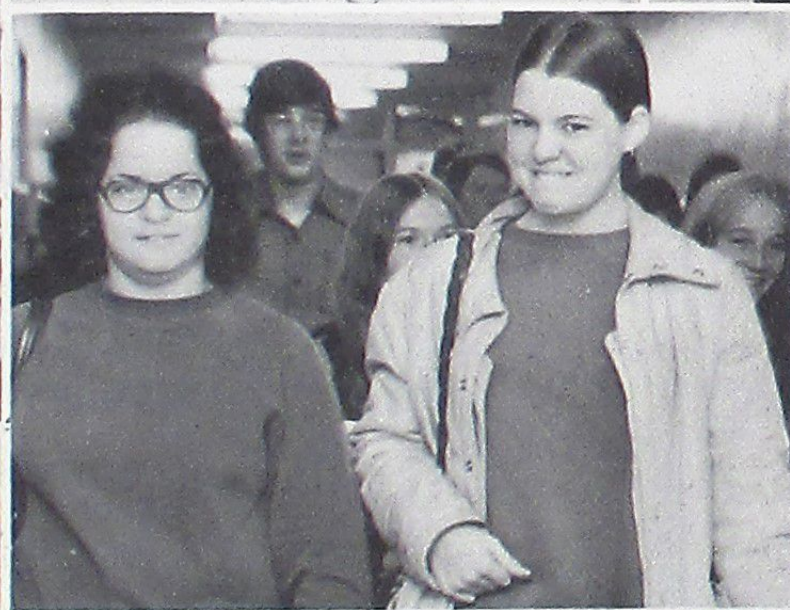

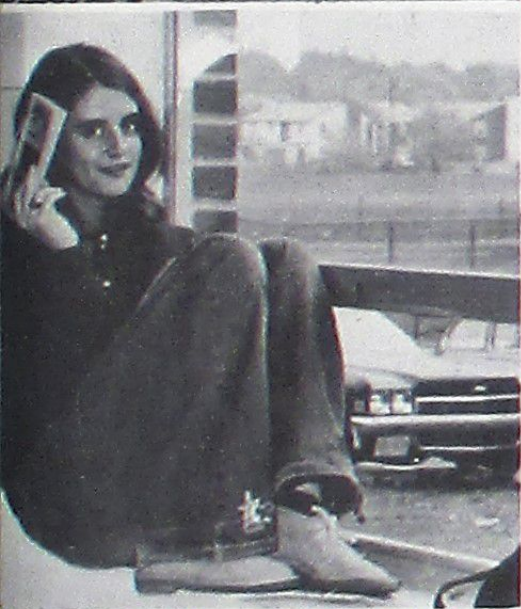

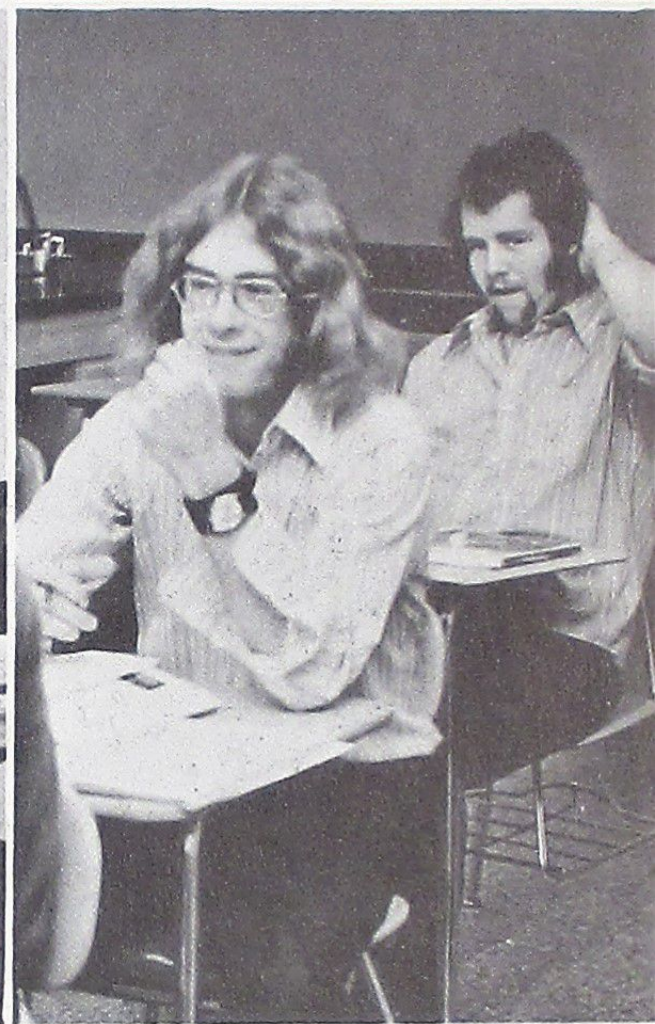

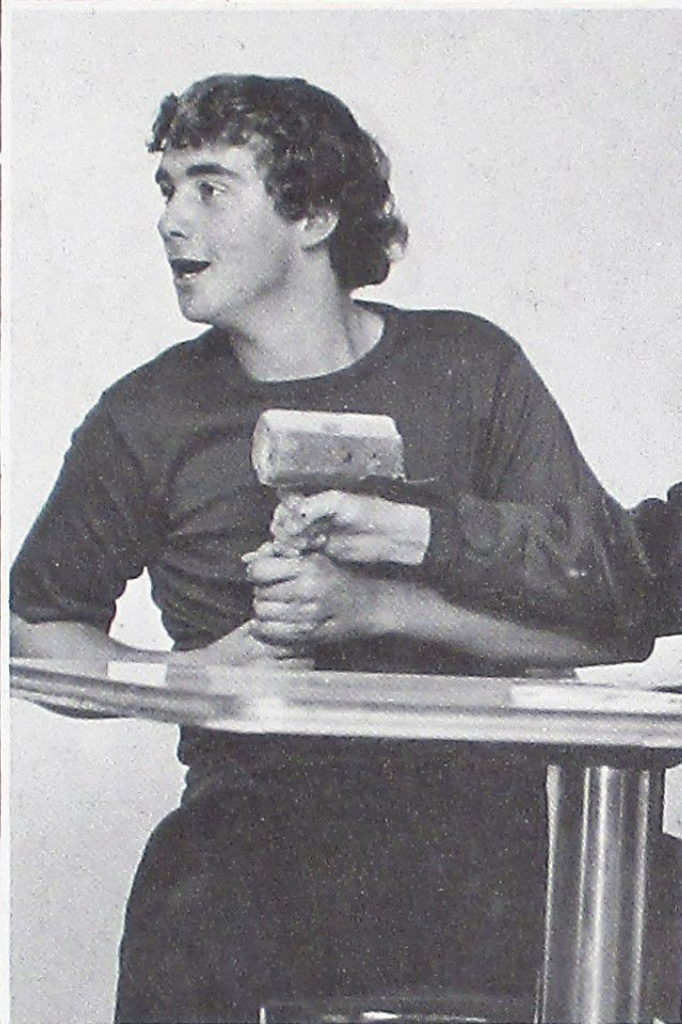

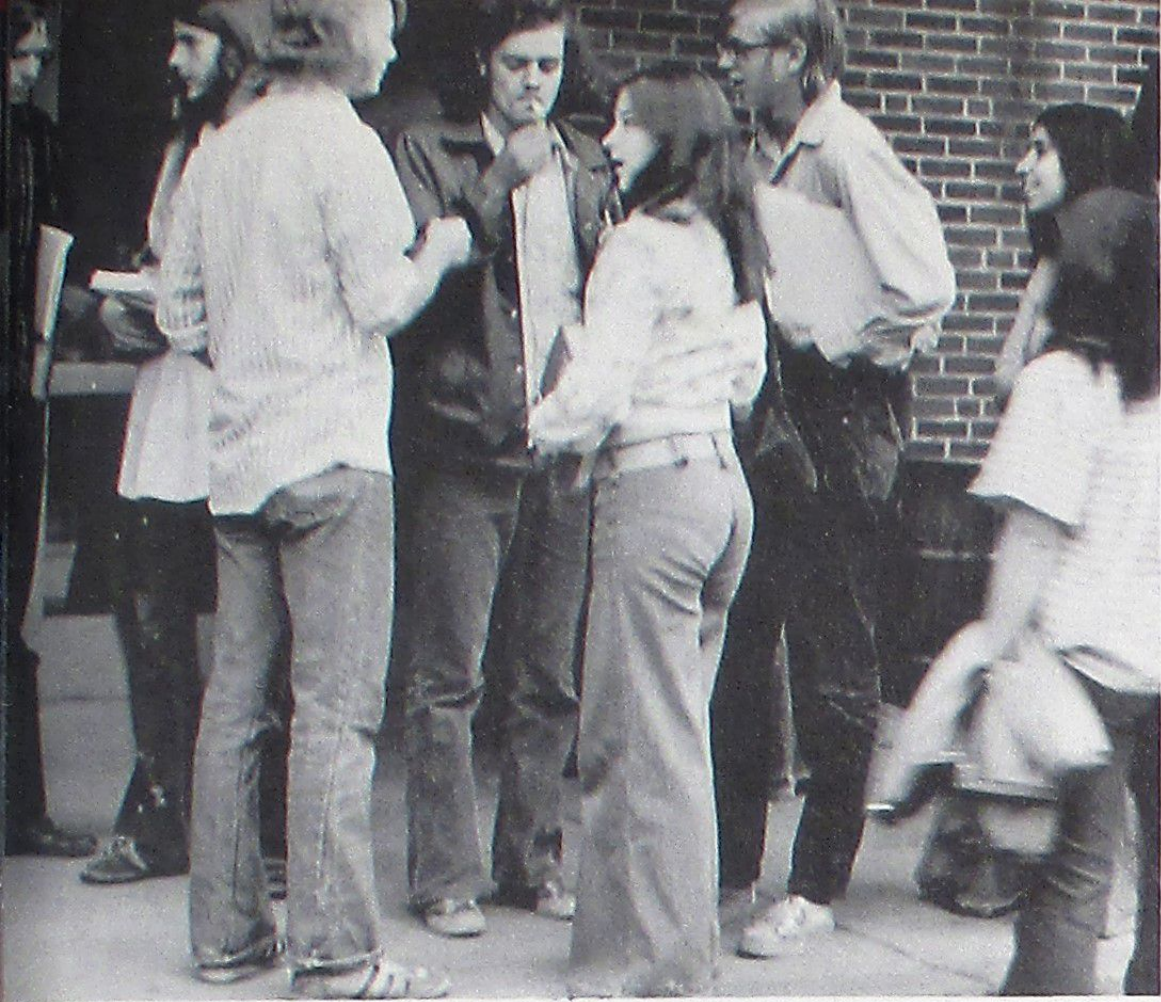

Rodeo star Gary Jordan, who many say is the best to ride a horse since the Lone Ranger, was unable to attend. The professionals say he has a natural talent for riding horses; he's bowlegged.

President of the United States, Joe Kerwin, was also unable to attend because he's in court for failure to pay taxes in '83 and '84. Running for President next year will be Air Force General Bob Roy.

Probably the most incredible excuse for not being here is that of astronaut Jim Curley. He reportedly went into orbit without the use of a space craft some time last week.

That's just about everybody, so this is Paul Freese from the Lockett house saying, "Goodbye" and "YOU WERE THERE."

We all cross a bridge at one time in our lives.

You are about to walk across that bridge. Be careful, go slowly, and don't look back, for it is a narrow bridge,
and you can slip and fall.

Remember us if you will, and someday we may catch up to you on that bridge. If we are going the wrong way, please turn us around, for you are wiser and know better.

Good Luck in years to come, and remember the years you've left.
